Dear Kelley,

I had an interesting experience this weekend, and one of the most interesting things about it was that I would have liked to discuss it with you. The experience a) shocked me and b) is over. What's left to ponder is my reaction to the whole thing. I thought it was pretty ponderable that I immediately thought of you. There is no response necessary to this letter. It is just important to me that you know that I think of you often, exclusive of Wayne.

Yours
